And I joined the ladies, and there came that wish you were a poorer woman—as general moving of places like the shuf-poor as I—and had no lovely home such as this. To think you have kept yourself from all other me for such an un-worthy fellow as me!"

Rosalys looked away from him along the green vistas of chestnuts and beeches stretching far down outside the windows.

"Oswald-I know how much you care for me, and that is why I-hope you won't be disappointed-after you have taken me to-morrow for good and all! I wonder if I shall hinder and hamper you in your profession? Per-haps you ought to marry a girl much younger than yourself-your nature is so young-not a maturing woman like

For all answer he smiled at her with the confiding, fearless gaze that she Lord Parkhurst stayed on through a paradisaical hour till Miss Jennings came to tell them that tea was in the library. Presently they were reminded by the same faithful relative and dependent that on that evening of all evenings they had promised to drive across to the house of Col. Lacy, Lord Parkhurst's uncle, and one of Rosalys' near neighbors, and dine there quietly with two or three intimate friends.

CHAPTER VI.

When Rosalys entered Col. Lacy's drawing-room before dinner, the eyes of the few guests assembled there were naturally enough fixed upon her.

"By Jove, she's better looking than ever-though she's not more than a year or two under thirty!" whispered young Lacy to a man standing in the shadow behind a high lamp.

The person addressed started, and did not answer for a moment. Then he laughed and said, forcedly:

'Yes, wonderful for her age, she certainly is."

As he spoke his hostess, a fat and genial lady, came blandly towards

"Mr. Durrant, I'm so sorry we've no lady for you to take in to-night. One or two people have thrown us over. I want to introduce you to Miss Ambrose. Isn't she lovely? O, how stupid I am! Of course you grew up in this fling of a pack of cards. She heard neighborhood, and must have known all about her as a girl." Jim Durrant it was, in the flesh; once the soldier, now the "traveler and explorer" of the little known interior of Asiatic countries; to use the words in which he described himself. His foreign-looking and sun-dried face was rather pale and set as he walked last to-night. Be there to meet me. I'll not into the dining-room with young Lacy. He had only arrived on that day at a hotel in the nearest town, where he had been accidentally met and recognized by that young man, and asked to dinner off hand. Smiling and apparently unconscious he sat down on the left side of his hostess, talking calmly to her and across the table to the one or two he knew. Rosalys heard his voice as the phantom of a dead sound mingling with the usual trivial words and light laughter of the rest, Lord Parkhurst's conversation about Egyptian finance, and Mrs. Lacy's platitudes about the the home rule question as if she were

The clock crept on to twelve before Rosalys had written a word. The labor seemed Herculean-insuperable. Why had she not told him face to face?

truth of her history, was so terrible to her that she burst into hysterical sobbing over the paper as she sat.

Twelve o'clock it was, and nothing done; and controlling herself as women can, when they must, she went down to the door. Softly opening it a little way she saw against the iron gate immediately without it the form of her husband, Jim Durrant-upon the whole much the same form that she had known eight years ago.

"Here I am," said he. "Yes," said she.

"Open this iron thing." A momentary feeling of aversion caused her to hesitate. "Do you hear-do you mean to say-Rosalys!" he began. "No-no. Of course I will!" She opened the grille and he came up and touched her hand lightly.

"Kissing not allowed, I suppose," he observed, with mock solemnity, "in view of the fact that you are to be married to-morrow?" "You know better," she said. "Of course I'm not going to commit bigamy!

The wedding is not to be." "Have you explained it to him?" "N-no-not yet. I was just writing

"I DON'T LIKE YOU! I DON'T LIKE YOU!"

Jim's voice speaking close to her ear: "I want to have a word with you."

"I can't!" she faltered. "Did you get my letter?".

"No," said she. "I wonder how that was! Well, I'll be at the door of Ambrose towers while the stable clock is striking twelve detain you long. We must have an understanding." "For God's sake, how do you come here?" "I saw in the newspapers that you were going to marry. What could I do otherwise than let you know I was alive?"

"Oh, you might have done it less cruelly!" "Will you be at the door?"

"I must, I suppose! " " Don't tell him here—before these people! It will be such an agonizing disturbance "Of course I shan't. Be there."

This was all they could say. Loro were coming back any more; and you yourself suggested that I might be able to remarry!"

odged at their ease thereabouts, as if knowing that their ease thereabouts, as if knowing that their proprietor was a gunless woman, all slept calmly, and not a creature was conscious of the presence of these two but a little squirrel they had disturbed in a beech near the shady wall. Durrant remained gazing at her; then he spoke, in a changed and richer voice:

Dr. Radway's Pills are a cure for this complaint. They restore strength to the stomach and emble it to perform its fufficiency and with them the liability of the lystem to contract diseases. Take the sedicine according to directions, and observe what we say of "False and True."

Send a letter stamp to DR. RADWAY is CO., Lock Box 356, New York for "False and True." "Rosalys!"

Parkhurst came forward, and observing to Durrant: "They are wanting you for bezique," sat down beside Roselys. She looked vaguely at his face without answering. She had intended to go home early, and went even earlier than she had "How pretty you look in this starlight-much as you did when we used

For nearly fifty years this wonderful remedy has proved itself the best, quick-est, safest and surest antidote for pain in the world.

THE TRUE RELIEF

RADWAY'S READY RELIEF is safe, reliable and effectual because of the stimulating action of the body, adding tone to the one and incling to renewed and increased vigor the shumbering vitality of the physical structure, and through this healthful stimulation and increased action the cause of PAIN is driven away and a natural condition restored. It is thus that the READY RELIEF is 50 admirably adapted for the CURE OF PAIN and without the risk of injury, which is sure to result from the use of many of the so-called pain remedies of the day.

In using medicines to stop pain we should avoid such as inflict injury on the system. Opium, Morphine, Ether, Cocaine and Chloral stop pain by destroying the sonse of perception, when the patient loses the power of feeling. This is the most destructive practice; it masks the symptoms, shuts up, and instead of removing trouble, breaks down the stomach, liver and bowels, and, if continued for a length of time, kills the nerves and produces local or general paralysis.

There is no necessity for using these uncertain agents, when a positive remedy like RADWAY'S READY RELIEF will stop the most excruciating pain quicker, without entailing the least difficulty in either infant or adult.

A CURE FOR ALL THE TRUE RELIEF

A CURE FOR ALL Summer Complaints

Cholera Morbus A half to a teaspoonful of Ready Relief a half tumbler of water, repeated as
